B. Snohomish County Opioid Response Multi-Agency Coordination (MAC) Group Presentation

County Executive Dave Somers introduced a presentation regarding the Snohomish County Opioid Response MAC (Multiagency Coordination) Group.

Jason Bierman, Director of Emergency Management, made a PowerPoint presentation with data regarding the opioid epidemic in Snohomish County and the purpose of the MAC group. He explained they are approaching this as they do with other emergencies and disaster response procedures.

Alessandra Durham, Executive Assistant, gave a presentation regarding some key objectives and areas of progress so far including: adding to the data toolbox, increasing access to Naloxone and Narcan countywide, expanding the Office of Neighborhoods through collaboration with Human Services and Sheriff's Office, preparing to open the Diversion Center, beginning Targeted Outreach and Training for providers and prescribers, providing options for residents to keep prescriptions safe, and connecting community to treatment providers and resources, and creation of a new one-stop resource portal. She also explained options for cities to get involved.

Councilmember Muller asked if there is an advocacy component to MAC such as putting pressure on legislature to make prescribed opioids or narcotics come with their own prescription lock bag automatically. Mr. Bierman replied that there is. He explained some of policy issues they are looking at. Executive Somers explained they have not formalized any policy actions yet as they are still early in their work. Alessandra commented on successes gained as a result of the partnership with the North County

Mayors who identified opioid-related issues in the last session. Councilmember Muller asked if they are tracking the entrance into this problem.

Heather Thomas, Snohomish Health District, explained that thanks to this work they have much more information about the problem. They are starting to see age ranges and locations about where it's coming from and where they overdose. Alessandra added that the pathway into this problem varies. There appear to be various channels.

Moving forward, the goals are to: get age-appropriate opioid curriculum in the schools, expanding needle clean-up kid pick-up and drop-off locations, compiling information to develop a data dashboard, building healthy, resilient families to break the cycle, leveraging community paramedics, realigning first-aid to match the threats to modern society, repeating the 7-day Point in Time, and improving outreach and education resources
